Honeywell HomMed®

Home Health Monitoring System

Each day, a gentle, friendly voice guides the user through the simple three-minute procedure to collect their health status information. The user is also asked up to 10 subjective yes/no questions to further assist our clinicians in evaluating their health. The data is automatically sent to our agency via a wireless two-way pager system or by a standard telephone line for clinical review. If the data collected indicates a need for intervention or if the user fails to collect their vital signs when prompted, appropriate action is taken. Daily monitoring allows early identification of a change in health status, preventing a chronic condition from escalating into something more serious.

- Standard measurements – weight up to 500 pounds, blood pressure, heart rate and oxygen saturation.
