Remarks. The person entered on the 6th line, was a Boy and 12 years of age. At the intermission at noon, the scholars were at play upon the ice near the school house, and in the course of the play this lad was "tripped" by another scholar and fell striking the back of his head upon the ice. That night cold chills & inflammation set in, and he died the next day at 10 o'clock morning to the age of 12 years, not to play so roughly with smaller children.
